NOTE AND COMMENT

A SPURIOUS LAW COURSE.—A pamphlet entitled "University of Michigan Law Course," printed by one Edwards, of Ann Arbor, has come to our notice.

In this pamphlet there are offered for sale what are represented to be law lectures by members of the faculty of the Department of Law of the University of Michigan.

The publication is calculated to deceive one as to the real character of these so-called lectures; for anyone unfamiliar with the true state of affairs would get the impression from reading this pamphlet that the lectures offered for sale are those now being delivered in this department, and that they have been revised and corrected by the lecturers who delivered them. As a matter of fact, however, these "lectures" are manufactured from notes taken by students in former days, before the present methods of instruction now used in this law school were adopted. They are in most instances incomplete and very inaccurate. Some of the "lectures" are by men long since deceased, and some are by men who have not been connected with the University of Michigan for some years.
